Vol. 3—No. 199 GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, MONDAY, AUGUST 20, 1923 THREE CENTS

Our City Comment & discussion by THOMAS D. WATSON

P. E. Bus Permit Might Lead to Lower L. A. Fare.

IN the bus line proposition our city council has a difficult problem. The fact that it is going slow in the matter speaks well for a satisfactory solution. Both the companies who have made application for a permit are financially able to carry out any agreement.

The only thing left to consider under these circumstances is which company has the best proposition.

In studying over the different proposals it looks to us as if the proposition of the Pacific Electric would be of benefit to the greatest number of citizens, in the fact that transfers would be issued which would be interchangeable between the street car and the bus line.

* * *

FROM a local business standpoint the desirable feature of bus lines is the bringing of people from the districts situated at a distance from the car lines to the business district, and there is no doubt but that either line would give satisfactory service of this nature.

We have to recognize, however, that there is a large percentage of Glendale citizens who make their livelihood in Los Angeles and to this class the inter-changeable transfers would be not only a convenience, but a daily saving.

* * *

SOME months ago a committee of the Chamber of Commerce met with the Pacific Electric officials to consider a proposition of lower fares to Los Angeles.

At that time the railroad company advised that it would not be adverse to a lower fare to and from Glendale if its granting would not effect the entire system.

* * *

WITH this thought in mind along with the knowledge that a lower fare could only come through action of the Railroad Commission, the committee in conference with the city attorney decided to write the commission and arrange for a hearing. Probably on account of the holiday season along with large number of applications now under consideration, Glendale's turn has not yet been reached.

If Glendale is entitled to a lower fare, as we all think she is, and taking in consideration the Pacific Electric's statement that it would not oppose it, we can see no reason for any hesitation on the part of the commission to granting the request.

* * *

SO far as the present proposition is concerned we would suggest the granting of a bus permit to the Pacific Electric, making it revokable at any time and immediately go into the subject of lower fares to Los Angeles with it.

By granting it the bus permit we show it that we are kindly disposed towards it, which in the past has been doubted by it. This will leave it in a frame of mind such as would make it easier to talk to it of lower fares.

* * *

WE understand the greatest objection offered to granting the Pacific Electric a bus line permit is on account of it giving it a monopoly. This argument might apply if it were requesting a franchise to run for a term of years.

It is not asking for a franchise, but only a permit which the council could so word as to make revocable at a moment's notice.

This puts the matter in local hands and would guarantee the handling of the transportation problem as desired by the people.

VISITORS OVER SUNDAY KEEP POLICE BUSY

Visitors, some of them thieves, thugs, speeders, drunks and various other kinds of people kept the Glendale police department on the jump over the week-end. In fact, this was the liveliest Saturday and Sunday the local department has experienced for some time. As a result of the activities of these fellows Judge Lowe's court was crowded this morning.

L. Ella, address not given, was arrested at the corner of Park and Brand, the charge against him being drunkenness, according to the police records, which state further that a bottle partially filled with liquor was found in the pocket of Ella's coat.

A man has been hanging around the Glendale Creamery company's plant for the past several nights, according to police records. This man, the report states, took a shot, Saturday night, at one of the company's employees.

200 ATTEND PICNIC OF GLEN EYRIE

Held at Eagle Rock Park on Saturday Evening

MANY RACES HELD

Program of Music and Entertainment Given; Basket Supper Held

Members of Glen Eyrie chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, of Glendale and their trailers, numbering in all about 200, enjoyed the annual picnic party given by that organization on Saturday night at Eagle Rock park. Arrangements were in charge of Miss Mildred Lyon, worthy matron.

At 6 o'clock a basket picnic supper was enjoyed under the pepper trees. Ice cream and coffee were furnished in large quantities by the chapter. After supper the party adjourned to the dance pavilion, where a number of races were staged and the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing.

Miss Lyon was assisted in directing the races by Ralph Reese. Little Eleanore Marek was awarded first prize in the girls' sack race. Other races and winners were as follows: Ladies' sack race, Mrs. A. B. Woodside; men's sack race, C. V. Clark, Jr.; ball throwing through hoops, Mr. Jerry; race for children under five years of age, Eleanore Marek; boys throwing ball through hoops, Delwyn McGrath.

A short program was also given in the pavilion. This included a fancy dance by Elizabeth Talbot-Martin, accompanied at the piano by Miss Pansy Corp; vocal selections, "Marcheta" and "If Winter Comes," by Miss Alta Arnold; readings by Elizabeth Talbot-Martin, "Seeing Things at Night" and "Our Hired Girl."

Special guests at the picnic were Mrs. Irene Trunick Clark, district deputy grand matron; Mrs. Virginia Goff of Glendora, district deputy grand matron; Mr. Goff; Sister Bailey, worthy matron of Eagle Rock chapter; and Brother McGrath of Rosecroix.

Music for dancing was furnished by a three-piece orchestra. There was a special grand march for children, followed by one for grown-ups, during which favors of balloons were distributed.

INDEPENDENT GAS PRICES ARE SLASHED

Range From 13 to 17 Cents at Glendale Stations

Gasoline prices in Glendale ranges from 13 cents to 17 cents, according to investigation made this morning. Wilshire gasoline is being sold at 13 cents at some local stations, while at others it is 15 cents. Union and Shell gasoline is selling at 15 cents, while Standard Oil gasoline is continuing to be sold at 17 cents per gallon, this price having prevailed for the past two weeks.

San Pedro Has New 13c Price
[By Associated Press]

SAN PEDRO, Aug. 20.—Gasoline is selling here for 14½ cents a gallon. In several stations on Wilmington road it is being retailed as low as 13 cents per gallon. The cut has been in effect for several weeks and may, according to independent dealers, continue indefinitely.

Santa Monica Gets Low Price
[By Associated Press]

SANTA MONICA, Aug. 20—Other than the two cent drop going into effect several weeks ago, gasoline of the Standard, Shell, Union and other big companies is apparently unaffected by the fuel war in the east, and retails for 17 cents throughout the Santa Monica bay district.

Independent companies, however, are today selling for 15 cents and in a few cases as low as 13 cents. The policy of independent stations has been consistently to maintain a price two cents below that asked by the big companies. Officials of both Standard and Shell scout the idea of further reductions in this part of the country.

POLICE CHECK REALTY BUYER THIEF HERE

Warning Results in Reports of His Activities in Glendale

The realty buying thief has arrived in Glendale, believe the local police authorities.

In Saturday's issue of the Glendale Daily Press the residents of Glendale were warned against the activities of a certain fellow who has been operating in Pasadena and who has for his "blind" the claim that he is trying to purchase a home.

Reports were turned into the Glendale police department Sunday by Mrs. O. A. Lane, 209 East Chestnut street, and Mrs. Atkinson, 455 West Wilson, to the effect that a person answering the description of this fellow had called at their homes and had acted suspiciously.

This fellow operates only in connection with homes before which "for sale" signs appear. Seeing the sign, he goes up to the house and rings the bell. If there is no answer he contrives to get into the home, after which he takes whatever of value he can find. Should the owners be at home he asks to see through the house, and while making the rounds "spots" some easy way of gaining entrance. Then, when the home owners are out, he breaks into and robs the dwelling.

This fellow is neat-appearing and weighs about 190 pounds.

If this fellow calls at your home, Mr. Property Owner, call the Glendale police.

PASADENA CLEANS UP GLENDALE

Breaks Tie in Eleventh Inning With Three Runs

The Pasadena Elks horned the Glendale crew to the tune of 5 to 2 in a thrilling eleven inning contest yesterday at the home lot at Park avenue and San Fernando road.

A record crowd was on hand to see one of the best pitchers' battles, between Walt Heidler and "Speedo" Nettles, ever put on in Glendale.

The Glendale team pushed one over in the fourth inning and another in the sixth, but could do nothing more from then on. Walt Heidler held the visitors scoreless up until the the seventh inning, when they pushed over two runs, thus deadlocking the works. They did nothing more until the eleventh inning, when they managed to get three more runs due to very loose fielding by the locals.

Walt Heidler performed very good, striking out 15 batsmen and allowing but five hits. Nettles, the Elks hurler, performed a little better as he struck out 18 and allowed but four hits in a whirlwind battle that was well worth some fans' four bits, others nickels, while most saw it all for nothing. Pep Kerwin again displayed some wonderful headwork and put up another brilliant game behind the bat for Glendale.

RED CROSS LEARN TO SWIM WEEK

Local Chapter Announces Event for Next Monday

AT PATTERSON POOL

Boys and Girls Register for Class in Swimming

Boys and girls of Glendale, take notice!

The Glendale chapter of the Red Cross, of which Mrs. H. E. Bartlett is chairman, is putting on a "Learn to Swim" week which will begin next Monday morning at the Patterson park pool at 9:30 and continue throughout the mornings until noon the succeeding days of the week. During that time the pool will be given over to these classes, which will be conducted by Arthur Bonner of Pasadena, an expert instructor, who will come to Glendale every day.

Boys and girls can register at the pool beforehand, or can come prepared to enroll in a class Monday morning at 9:30.

This is one of the things which the Red Cross is promoting as a lifesaving measure. Qualified instructors have been employed and assigned to the different beaches and many lives have been saved, it is believed, through these courses, which include "water first aid."

NEW GROCERY AT COLORADO AND GLENDALE

Branch Store Is Latest Addition to Business Section

The location of a grocery store close to the corner of Glendale avenue and Colorado street will be the latest addition to the Glendale and Colorado business section, according to a report that reached the Glendale Press office this morning.

This report stated that A. Ogassian, who owns the southwest corner of that intersection, is now receiving bids for the construction of a modern brick building to be erected on the west 40 feet of his property. This structure will be of two stories, it is claimed, the second floor being taken up by apartments. The entire first floor, it is declared, will be occupied by the Rock Bottom Grocery, the meat department of which will be handled by the proprietor of the Golden State Market.

This building, it is claimed, is the first of the construction operations that are destined to take place at the corner of Glendale and Colorado. This activity, it is declared, logically comes as a result of the assured electrification of the Glendale avenue line and the improvement of Glendale avenue and Colorado street, which work will begin within a short time.

MISS CLEOPHAS IS GIVEN OVATION AT HOLLYWOOD

Rendition of MacDowell's Concerto Is Great Triumph

Another triumph has been added to the list of Glendale's honors by Miss Gertrude Cleophas, talented pianist, who was the soloist at the Hollywood Bowl on Saturday night, which was celebrated there as Glendale-Iowa night. So well was Miss Cleophas' number, MacDowell's "Concerto" received, that she was called on to play an encore, to which she responded with a concert study by MacDowell.

Glendale was well represented among the thousands of people who attended the concert.

WOMEN ARE CALLED TO XMAS WORK

Local Chapter Red Cross Gets Army, Navy, Marine Quotas

A plea is being made to the women of Glendale to assist in aiding the Glendale chapter of the American Red Cross in making Christmas bags for the army, navy and marine corps in the Hawaiian division. The Glendale chapter is in receipt of a request from the Pacific division of the American Red Cross. It is the desire of the Pacific division to secure 7,703 Christmas bags.

The Glendale quota must be completed within three weeks and turned into the local chapter by that time. According to Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, chairman of the Glendale chapter of the American Red Cross, states that it has been suggested that bright colored cretonnes be used. The bags are to be 10x10 inches and should be finished with a double draw string. Suggestions of articles to fill the bags include handkerchiefs, wash cloth, pocket knife, memorandum book, diaries, mechanical pencils, key rings and chains, playing cards and puzzles, a return postcard addressed to the chapter with Christmas greeting cards and puzzles, tobacco pouch as cigarette cases, pipes, etc., but no perishiable articles, such as candies and cakes.

Those who care to help with this work are asked to telephone Mrs. Bartlett, Glen. 56-J.

GOOD SAMARITAN ACT IS REWARDED IN USUAL WAY

Mrs. A. P. Findlay declares that before she again plays the role of Good Samaritan in courtesy when motoring she will do some thinking. Recently she wsa driving on Lankershim boulevard and stopped to recover the hat of another motorist ahead of her who had lost it and to whom she signalled that she would pick it up and return it to him, but another motorist behind her crashed into her car and took off a fender, speeding up without stopping to inquire about the damage done. The man to whom she delivered the hat thanked her for it but also ignored the fender.

BERNDTS WIN IN SUIT OF MURPHY

Last week Mr. and Mrs. Leo F. Berndt of Burchett street, this city, defendants, won the suit of Oliver L. Murphy of Tujunga against them for damages after their car and his had collided at Broadway and Verdugo road at 7:30 in the evening.

Mr. Murphy was coming north on Verdugo and attached to his car was a trailer containing a goat. Mr. and Mrs. Berndt were driving east on Broadway.

The testimony brought out the fact that Murphy did not have lights on his auto as required at that hour under the motor vehicle act, therefore judgment was rendered for the defendant. It was also held that the plaintiff was negligent in driving his car too fast.

As a matter of fact the goat ascaped unharmed.

Mr. Burton, who was born in Ashville, N. C., June 11, 1871, came to Glendale in 1912 from Michigan, where he had promoted railroads and been engaged in electrical businesses. He built the Glendale-Montrose railroad and following its completion accepted a position with the Southern California Edison company at Huntington Lake. FLAW IN GEM CAUSES SUIT IN COURT

A. W. Nelson Finds Diamond Has an Imperfection

An interesting and rather puzzling case which was brought before Judge Harry W. Chase last week and on which he will render a decision today or tomorrow, concerns a diamong ring, a large stone of 1.80 carats. A. W. Nelson of Glendale is being sued for the unpaid portion of the price of the ring, $1275. The plaintiff is a St. Louis, Mo., jeweler, represented by D. R. Peck of Los Angeles. The dispute rests on the quality of the gem. The defendant insists he bought it for a perfect stone and paid the price of a perfect stone. The plaintiff on the other hand declares it was sold "S P K" or "S Pique," which means subject to imperfections, and that under the law and custom, Nelson cannot recover. It is probable that the ring will have to be appraised by experts before the judge makes his decision.

WHOLESALERS SEEK RELIEF IN PARKING

Declare Hardship Involved in Making Glendale Deliveries

URGE L. A. SYSTEM

Chamber of Commerce to Consider Matter at Next Meeting

At the meeting of directors of the chamber of commerce this week a number of interesting matters will be presented in which they will be asked to help.

Some of the Los Angeles wholesale merchants, for example, are appealing to the chamber to use its influence in securing a modification of the present parking ordinance in the case of merchants whose places of business do not run through an alley. It is argued that this city should follow the example of Los Angeles in providing a certain zone in front of such stores which can be used by business autos but not by private machines. Under the present system wholesalers who wish to deliver goods can be barred from the stores and forced to park their machines several blocks away, a great inconvenience in delivering goods ordered.

Secretary Sanders says the matter will be discussed and city officials may be asked to be present.

DEFECTIVE HEADLIGHT WAR IS ON

Police Start Drive on Night Lights of Autos

A war on defective headlights and spotlights, especially the latter, has been started by the Glendale police departments. About a dozen motorists driving cars with defective lights were picked up Saturday and Sunday nights for traveling streets of Glendale with lights that are a menace to public safety. These fellows were cited to appear before Judge Lowe, where they will probably drop about "so much per"—maybe ten bucks, who knows?

Desk Sergeant Cole stated this morning that it behooves the motorists of Glendale to have their lights tested and adjusted. If they fail to do so and are arrested, they should not complain, says Sergeant Cole.

SHRINERS TO DINE ON FRIDAY NIGHT

Shriners and their families will be the guests at a dinner and entertainment to be given Friday night, August 24, at the Egyptian Village cafe at 133 North Brand boulevard, Glendale, beginning at 7 o'clock. There will be an entertainment, favors will be distributed, and dancing will then be in order.

CARNATION LODGE TO HOLD BUSINESS MEETING

At that meeting announcement will be made of the preliminary arrangements for the week-end party at Topango Beach next Saturday, where the picnickers will spend the night, returning Sunday afternoon.

Early Saturday morning Lee Murdock will motor with Mrs. Evelyn Hall, noble grand, and Mrs. Margery Pease, vice grand, to the beach and stake out a playground to be occupied by the party. On a cliff overlooking the beach a pennant will be placed to mark the spot.

At 2:30 Saturday afternoon Rebekahs and Odd Fellows, their families and friends will meet at I. O. O. F. hall and start together. Transportation will be provided for those who have no other way of going, and it is suggested that they telephone Mrs. Hall, Glendale 1575-R, for reservations. These will be followed by land sports: "Follow the Leader," Miss eZnona Kaiser being the leader, and other diversions.

LOS ANGELES SECURES ONE GLENDALE POLICEMAN

Officer Fleming, who for the past several months has been a member of the Glendale police force, severed his connections with the local department Friday and has accepted a position with the Los Angeles police department.

REV. MILLIKAN IS BACK IN PULPIT

A somewhat larger congregation than usual greeted the pastor, Rev. L. J. Millikan, yesterday at the Broadway Methodist church, South, it being his first service since returning from vacation.

Miss Gertrude Edens sang very sweetly, "Somebody Cares."

"Reaching the Sublime Objective," was the sermon topic, Eph. 3:17-19. He said in part: "In the sublime climax quoted in the last sentence of our text we have a brief but most remarkable prayer emenating from a great heart, and reaching to a great soul. This scripture proves conclusively that we can be filled with the spirit of God. It is to be regretted that we have allowed our frailties to rob us of reaching our sublime objective. This can be accomplished only by the presence of Jesus Christ dwelling in the human heart, and only by faith can we obtain Christ in our hearts—not by works. However, if we do not work He will not long remain.

"With Jesus Christ in every heart all human problems would then be solved, and they would be adjusted fairly, leaving no bitterness. No longer would there be social, commercial, racial, capitalistic, labor, or other problems.

"Faith swings open wide the door, and invites Christ to come in. Obedience also is required, for faith and disobedience cannot dwell in the same heart at the same time, as disobedience will destroy faith. In every battle where self is sacrificed, you will be sure to win, and when you separate yourself from the world the world will be sure to find it out. When His love comes into your heart you will love every one of God's creatures, no matter how lowly his life. Strength means power to endure, and to obtain spiritual strength we must be rooted and grounded in the love and service of Jesus.

"All heroes of the world have not been recorded in the pages of history, but Christ has a complete record, and on that record are the names of all who have conquered themselves. Many can be found bended over a washtub or between the plowhandles, as they tread the path of righteousness. The man who can rule himself is the greatest of all heroes.

"How marvelous it is to be filled with all the fullness of God! How sublime to possess the sweet, glorious understanding of God's dealings, knowing for a certainty that victory awaits us! How happy the thought of climbing the golden stairs that lead to the heavenly gates of the new Jerusalem, only to enter the pearly gates and walk by the redeemed throng, to dwell in the presence of God—at home forever!"

NAZARENE CHURCH IS WELL FILLED

Acts, the first chapter and the eighth verse, was chosen as a text by Rev. Henry Scheideman at the Nazarene church Sunday afternoon. Warren Crumpler, assistant superintendent of the Sunday school, had charge of the school yesterday. The text for the evening sermon was taken from the third chapter of Hebrews and the third verse. The audiences that attended the services yesterday filled the church to its utmost capacity. The prayer meetings this week will be held Tuesday and Friday nights as usual. Our prayer meetings are proving a great help and blessing to all who attend them.

The man who monopolizes the attentions of the prettiest girl at the party is both envied and hated by all the other men present.

GLENDALE MAKES HIT WITH THE 'BLACKSMITH'

When Henry Wadsworth Longfellow wrote a sentimental poem of eight stanzas called "The Village Blacksmith," he probably thought that he had said all there was to say about the smithy and the smith. But since then movies have been invented and Mr. Longfellow, if he is aware of what is going on here today, must be spiritistically startled to realize that his little piece, like the chestnut tree, has a remarkable spreading capacity. For with certain additions and interpolations, it now covers some seven reels of film exposed in the Fox studio and exhibited last night at the Glendale Theatre.

The picture tells a story of a morally and physically sturdy blacksmith, with two sons and a daughter, whose family is opposed in the plot to a mean-spirited village "squire" and his rascally son. Trials and tribulations are heaped upon the smithy and his family, but they bear up bravely and in the end are triumphant.

Most of the story, however, is told in the second half of the film. The first part is, in the main, a series of illustrations fitting lines in the poem, and they have a genuine, simple quality that is pleasing. William Walling, as the smithy, is upstanding and rugged, looking well at a forge, and the children used are spontaneously expressive, especially Gordon Griffith and Pat Moore as his sons. There are schoolroom, swimming and other scenes which are natural and amusing.

In the latter half of the picture, when the heavy melodrama comes in, there isn't much to suggest Longfellow's poem, but Mr. Walling, Virginia Valli, George Hackathorne, Tully Marshall, Caroline Rankin and several others make the scenes intense and interesting. And Mack Sennett's Eddie Gribbon is there as a village gossip and quite the most refreshing person present.

The picture was directed by Jack Ford from a scenario by Paul H. Sloane.

DR. BROWN RETURNS FROM TRIP NORTH

Dr. Laura Brown of 607 North Geneva street returned last week from a motor and camping trip which she took in company with Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Harrison and daughter Inez, which she says has opened her eyes to the beauties and resources of California. "Never until now," she says, "have I appreciated what a wonderful state it is." Part of the time the party camped on the beach, part of the time in the Santa Cruz woods, and a third sojourn was made at Lake Tahoe which she says is very lovely and cool enough to be stimulating. At all these stopping points sight seeing trips were made. An interesting but depressing sight was the barren waste of 40,000 acres between Sacramento and Placerville which are being dredged for gold, the surface being turned upside down by huge steam shovels which leave the rocks on the surface after the soil has been washed for its content of gold.

Dr. Brown returns to her office in the Security National Bank building this morning, rested and refreshed after her month's vacation from professional work.

"AN OPEN DOOR" REVEALS WEALTH

At the Glendale Presbyterian church the assistant pastor, Rev. Louis Tinning, occupied the pulpit. At the morning service he spoke on the subject "An Open Door," using as the text Rev. 3:8.

The message was in part as follows:

"The open door suggests a wealth of possibilities to the mind. Tremendous opportunities may lie just beyond that open door. The door that open into the kingdom of the home reveals life on one of its highest planes. The door that opens out into God's great world discloses marvelous beauties and possibilities. When a vessel is launched the seven seas lie before it. When a new life begins its possibilities are beyond the power of the mind of man to conceive. But Christ is here speaking of the open door into the world of spiritual things. All else dwindles into the merest insignificance compared with the open door which Jesus Christ sets before those entering His service.

"The key to this open door is the nail pierced hand of the Christ. Before all else it remains closed securely. Before Christ came a Chinese wall of exclusion surrounded the privileged land of light and liberty beyond that door. Most men were outside until Christ opened the door. Then they thronged in and the history of Christianity has been the history of opening doors to wider fields of Christian service beyond that Christly portal.

"Wherever Christ has come He has set before men open doors where lay possibilities of which they had never dreamed. This is a part of His mission and office. Men sometimes speak of Christ and His religion as if acceptance of it were a narrowing of life. This is not so. As far as the east is from the west, as high as is the heavens, as eternal as the endless ages, as broad as the mind of God is the plan of Jesus Christ for those who serve Him and love Him.

"Men long for a chance to grow and expand and to come into their own. The boy Lincoln struggled to enter the the kingdom of knowledge. He was not permitted to enter very far but by using every possibility and opportunity he grew to be one of the greatest minds the world has ever known. Every open door is an invitation, a beckoning hand, a provocation to untried enterprise. They who pass through the open door turn not back to the small petty things of the former life, but are partakers in a plan and purpose as broad and endless as the love of Almighty God. John Bunyan and Paul the Apostle were confined by prison bars for years. Their open doors seemed to have closed. But from their prison cells came messages which will be an inspiration to men of all time. When men have once passed through the open door 'no man can shut it.'

"It is the instinct of strong men to lead. The world needs leadership over prejudice, stupidity, ignorance, squalor, pain and sin. They who have passed through the open door of Christ are equipped as none others to lead. Huxley said to a colleague: 'I suppose it is our duty to give this old planet of ours a little shove upwards.' Wherever men serve humbly, unselfishly, in the name of the Christ, they are carrying out God's eternal purpose for the endless ages."

CHIEF FRASER IS BACK FROM VACATION

Chief Fraser of the Glendale police department, returned Sunday from Coronado Beach, where he, with his family, enjoyed the sad sea wavelets for the past week. The Frasers stopped, while there, at Hotel Coronado.

PAUL'S VISIT TO ATHENS RETOLD

The 17th chapter of the book of Acts was expounded Sunday morning by Keith L. Brooks, who addressed the Presbyterian Brotherhood at the City Council rooms. The chapter records the visit of the Apostle Paul to the city of Athens. In part Mr. Brooks said:

"The Apostle Paul found himself alone in this great heathen city while he was waiting for Silas and Timothy. The scenes upon which he gazed made him all the more lonely. Athens was distinguished as the center of art, philosophy and science. It was called the brain of the world, and Milton described it as the mother of arts and eloquence. Where all this education flourished, idolatry most abounded. They had more images than all the rest of Greece. The streets were crowded with sellers of idols. Paul's spirit was stirred in him when he saw the whole city given to idolatry. He could not bear to see all this misuse of the products of genius and all this culture ending in nothing but selfish and vile gratification.

"Therefore he disputed in the synagogue with the Jews, and in the market daily with all that met him. Then certain philosophers called Epicureans and Stoics encountered him. The Epicureans taught that the great end of existence was enjoyment. Creation was ascribed to chance and they declared that if there was a Supreme Being he was indifferent to human interests. The Stoics claimed to believe in a God but were pantheists, claiming all is God and that God is all. They taught that providence was governed by fatal necessity. These two cults, who have their counterparts today, might be called materialists and moralists. In Epicureanism, it was man's sensual nature that resisted the claims of the Gospel. In Stoicism it was self-righteousness and pride of intellect.

"This was Christianity's first contact with human philosophy. Though Athens was the university of the world, Paul was fearless of its sophistries and did not hesitate to enter the arena. He knew the Gospel could stand any test. Experience is a safer teacher than reason.

"These highbrows tried their usual plan of browbeating. They called him a 'babbler.' The original word means 'seed-picker,' a title derived from the bird that picked up seed, and applied to folks who hung around the streets picking up gossip. They classed Paul as a picker up of learning's crumbs. The philosophers still look with the same contempt on those who contend for the simple Gospel of Christ—editors who sponsor the cause of evolution and some of whom have never seen the inside of a college, who call a man like William Jennings Bryan, who defends the Christian faith, an ignoramus. The fact is that Bryan is an educated man, even according to the standards of the majority of professors who criticize him. He holds degrees from some eight or ten colleges, yet they would call him a seed-picker.

"Some of these philosophers surrounded Paul that they might hear more of his strange doctrines. Then Paul stood upon Mars Hill and addressed them. His address is a rare combination of prudence, courtesy, wisdom and boldness. He tells of seeing an altar bearing the inscription, "To the Unknown God," and then expounds to them the Scripture teaching concerning the true God.

"He tells them that God created the world and all things therein, that He is Lord of heaven and earth, and that He is not confined to temples made with hands. At one crack he knocks the props from under both philosophers, for he announces a personal God versus their material deities; a God separate from, and superior to, all existences, versus their pantheism; a God who is Creator and Controller of everything, versus their 'doctrine of chance; a God who could not be confined in any of the beautiful temples found in Athens. He shows them that the true God must be worshipped in spirit and truth, not by hand; that He does not want our help, but our recognition and yieldedness.

"He hath made of one blood all nations of men. The common belief of the time was that the different races had different origins. The Bible declares the unity of origin of the races. Paul thus pulled up by the roots the Athenian conceit that they were superior stock, for in their conception, mankind was divided into two classes, Greeks and Barbarians. The apostle comes to his climax in declaring that since the universe is full of the evidences of a personal God, He cannot be conceived of by means of any stone image, and since man is the offspring of God, reason demands that he should worship his Creator. Science fails to explain today man's mental and moral nature, through the evolutionary hypothesis. The highest animal cannot reason or worship. It is strange that some are so eager to establish paternity for man among the baboons. Paul's address is concluded with the declaration that now, in the light of the incarnation, the cross and the resurrection, all men are called upon to repent of their sins and accept Christ, and that no longer can we plead ignorance of God.

"An examination of this sermon on Mars Hill shows that it corrects many present-day errors. It meets atheism, the dogma that there is no God. It meets pantheism, the theory that all is God. It meets materialism, the notion that matter is eternal. It meets fatalism, the idea that no intelligence presides over the universe, but that all comes to pass by chance. It meets polytheism, the idea that there are many gods. It meets ritualism, the notion that God can be honored by purely external performances. It meets evolutionism, the idea that man is the product of force and matter. It is an answer to universalism, the idea that all men are saved."

A gift shower was one of the enjoyable features of the afternoon. Garden flowers were effectively used in the decorations and centered the tea table. The guests included Miss Kathleen Jenness of Long Beach, Mrs. Geo. Johnson, Mrs. Wesley Smith, Mrs. Ray Schaner and Miss Mary Josephine Poggi of Los Angeles, Miss Helenita Luberg of Hollywood, Mrs. Maida Wellborn and Miss Mildred Welborn of Pasadena. Miss Smith was charmingly assisted by Jean and Constance Angier. Miss Shidler will be married to D. M. Griffith of Bakersfield next Tuesday at the Congregational church of Long Beach. Miss Smith will be maid of honor.

Jack Brown of West Montrose avenue was host to the Willing Workers of the La Crescenta Community church last Friday evening. His guests were Misses Marion Keith, Edith Bush, Beatrice Volker, Grace Jones and Messrs. Robert Kelso and Arthur Crowell.

UNIQUE CANDY STORE TO OPEN

A unique confectionery and cafe will be opened at 108 East Broadway about October 1 by F. M. Edwards of Los Angeles, and George B. Dennis, who is now with the Roberts and Echols Drug company. Mr. Dennis will take charge here as Mr. Edwards' other work holds him in Los Angeles.

The interior construction and decoration will be patterned somewhat after several of the most popular and beautiful confectionery shops in Los Angeles and Hollywood, in combination with the original plans of several expert designers. An unusual and original lighting system will be installed, and the color harmony will be unlike anything else in Glendale. The remodeling work will be started this week.

The following building permits were issued up to noon today:

BUSINESS WORLD HAS A FRIEND AT WASHINGTON

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass., Aug. 20.—Knowing that Mr. Babson is a neighbor of President Coolidge, he has been continually asked during the past two weeks to make a statement as to the probable attitude of the new President toward business. Mr. Babson has, however, refused to do so until today, believing that it was no time to talk business, and furthermore that President Coolidge should be permitted to make his own announcements. Now that the President has done so Mr. Babson has answered the question put to him.

"President Coolidge will be found to be a true friend to the agricultural, industrial and commercial interests of the United States," he says. "He is the first President to ever have had a thorough economic training. While at Amherst college he majored in economics. Ever since graduation he has devoted a large part of his time to economic research. Those who have heard him speak or have read his books recognize the thorough ground work which he has along economic lines. The country is very fortunate to have a President who possesses this background. Other presidents may have possessed certain qualities which President Coolidge lacks, but none have equalled him in judgment and ability to handle the great economic agricultural, industrial and commercial problems today facing our country.

"Manufacturers may feel very safe with President Coolidge, owing to his training and environment. William M. Butler, whose name has been so constantly in the papers the past two weeks, is the head of the great group of Butler cotton mills in New England. These mills are located in New Bedford, North Adams and elsewhere and employ about 5000 operatives. Mr. Butler is also president of the Boston and Worcester Street railway, a high-speed, double track, which is the most successful interurban line in New England. Mr. Butler combines a legal training with a practical business experience, and from him, President Coolidge has absorbed a tremendous amount of industrial experience. President Coolidge's closest personal friend is Frank Stearns, head of R. H. Stearns & Co., one of the largest department stores of New England. Mr. Stearns is a merchant who not only thoroughly understands the commercial world, but purchases a good deal from Europe. Most of our Presidents have been trained in legal or political life without being thrown into contact much with practical business men. President Coolidge has continually been in an industrial, commercial and agricultural environment.

"On the other hand," continued Mr. Babson, "President Coolidge also understands the problems of the masses. He himself was born poor, has always been poor and is poor. His father was born a Vermont farmer and is one yet. President Coolidge was working in the hay field the day before he became President of the United States. The last time I talked with him he was especially troubled with the condition of the western farmer. Our conversation covered a broad field but he continually came back to the problem of the farmer and said, 'We must do something for the western farmer. What is the sanest and best thing we can do?' No one better realizes than he that agriculture is the basis of American prosperity and that with thirty-three million people dependent upon agriculture for their income we must have prosperity in the west before we can have it in the east.

"The home life of the new President was illustrated by the news item which appeared in the papers on the eventful morning of Friday, August 3. The Associated Press dispatch read: 'Mr. Coolidge came down stairs in his slippers, entered his father's sitting room, lit the lamp and read the telegram telling him that he was President of the United States.' Those simple words, 'slippers,' 'sitting room,' 'lit the lamp,' tell the whole story. Business has nothing to fear from the man with that environment and with such friends. Moreover, best of all, he is grounded on those fundamentals of religion which put the church and the home above even agriculture, labor, commerce or anything else.

"This means that the agricultural and business interests may feel safe regarding the White House. Regardless of what selfish politicians may attempt to do in congress, there will be a sane man at the wheel. Uneconomic or unjust legislation will only be passed by riding over President Coolidge's veto. He plans to help the farmer; but will not permit the Esch-Cummins transportation act to be repealed or crippled. He will do something for the veterans, but will not permit the passage of a bonus bill which will be harmful to the nation as a whole. He will stand for strengthening the federal reserve board, the railroad labor board, the federal tariff commission, and other bodies working along sound economic lines, but may be expected to frown upon an unnecessary coal shortage or an attempt by organized labor to hold up the country or upon any legislation which endeavors to make water run up hill.

"For these reasons there has been a greater confidence among American business men the past week than current figures indicate. Although the Babsonchart is 9 per cent below normal, this decline is largely due to conditions in Europe and to fears of foreign bankers and foreign business men, who do not know President Coolidge. Furthermore, while we have been busy thinking during the past three weeks only of our Presidents, great events have been taking place in Europe. The newspapers have been unable to give this European news much space. I refer to the increase in the German bank rate to 30 per cent and to certain other radical changes. These changes have caused the Babsonchart to decline and have influenced our domestic stock and commodity markets. When, however, these Europeans understand President Coolidge, they should resume the buying of commodities and securities with a faith equal to that being shown by the financial and business interests of our own country."

Huge Copper Wire Plant Being Built Near Chicago

[By Associated Press]

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—One of the largest copper wire mills in the world, with an ultimate capacity of 70,000,000 pounds of copper wire a year, is expected to be completed late this year when a group of buildings now under construction at the Western Electric company's plant at Hawthorne is finished.

The buildings and machinery will cost $2,500,000 and will have a floor area of 96,000 square feet. The output of copper wire will be devoted exclusively to telephone apparatus.

The rod mill plant will consist of three units, one for roughing the copper billets into bars, an intermediate mill for "breaking down" the bars, and a finishing mill for rolling them into one-quarter inch copper rods.

The rods will be carried by monorail to the pickling tanks and then to the wire drawing plant. The wire drawing machines will start with a combined capacity in excess of 41,000,000 pounds of wire a year, enough to encircle the earth approximately 310 times.

ABOUT THE COAL STRIKE

Discussion as to having a coal strike, or not having it, continues quite as though the subject gave opportuntiy for debate. If there is a way to prevent it, and anybody knows the way, it is absurd to watch the approach of a calamity as though submitting to the inevitable. If there should be such a strike it would be proof that one side of the controversy, at least, was grossly in the wrong: proof that selfishness amounting to stupidity, had invited disaster.

Southern California, considered by itself and not in relation to the country at large, probably has as little reason as any community to dread a coal strike. It is largely independent of this form of fuel. It has in abundance oil and natural gas. Its power is derived from mountain torrents. Moreover, it has no problem of bitter cold with which to contend. Notwithstanding all this, an extensive coal strike would be felt here. The interests of the whole country are so interwoven that the effects of such a strike must be felt everywhere. California could no more hold aloof and view the spectacle disinterestedly than the United States could with equanimity unimpaired, watch Europe in a death struggle.

There is much talk concerning the "Golden Rule" in business. Let this rule be introduced and adhered to, and the fear of a coal strike, or any other sort of strike, would vanish.

BLAMING THE COMMUNITY

Fumes of the political mess uncovered in Los Angeles are noxious enough to make apparent to all and sundry the need of a reform. The credit of a city, and in a fashion, of the south end of the state, may be said to be at stake. If there shall fail to be a clearing up, and a casting out, the heralded ambition of Los Angeles to be clean and decent will be viewed as lacking in sincerity. The present chief of police there is said to blame the community for the shattered morale of his department. Perhaps he is right, at least in some measure.

It is an old and familiar saying that people have just the sort of government they deserve. A large proportion of citizens habitually neglect even the small duty of voting. If they are of such calibre as to be desirable for filling official place, they haughtily decline to let their names be considered. No indeed! They will have nothing to do with politics. Naturally politics falls to lower and lower estate. The honest man projected into political activity finds few of his kind about him. He is a lonely figure. If he attempts to bring about reform, if he tries to be upright in his dealings, he is overwhelmed. The probability is that he will emerge besmirched by contact with the corruption that he had deplored and vainly had sought to cure.

But residents of Los Angeles, conscious that politicians were yielding to "invisible government," that men sworn to protect the public were not protecting it, nor even making the effort, came forward in the emergency to demand a change. They are getting it. The process even now has begun. These men are being fought bitterly as they endeavor to expose crookedness and retire the crooks, but they stick to the job. So if the community primarily was at fault, it seeks to make amends.

NEW CRIMINAL LAWS

Recent changes in California criminal laws add severity to the penalties. Thus if the penalties be imposed and the sentences carried out, there is certainty of some betterment. At least while the offenders remain in prison society will be protected against them. Heretofore the hope of the criminal has not been in the lightness of the prescribed penalty, but in the fact that a sentence to imprisonment was devoid of meaning. The judge would say solemnly "one year to life." In less than two years the criminal would be pursuing his old vocation. The most desperate men arrested by the police almost invariably are those out on parole, which is to say, at large on honor, a quality many of them do not possess. A large proportion of them go back to criminal pursuits without any interval of good behavior. The public will suppose that a certain convict still is within penitentiary walls, and then observe by the morning paper that he was arrested last night in the act of burglary. Therefore the new laws, unless respected by the kindly gentlemen who hand out paroles on request, will be no better than the ones they replace.

Under the revised code, neglect to provide for a minor child becomes a misdemeanor, instead of a felony. This represents a strange lapse into clemency. It informs the man who deserts his family that he has but to cross a county line, and nobody will take the trouble to go after him. If apprehended he will have a loafing period in the county jail, probably highly satisfactory to him.

NEWSPAPERS AND COURTS

Growing antagonism between newspapers and courts may be ended by reform on the part of the courts. If there is any other method it has not been suggested. Newspapers are not unfriendly to the courts. On the contrary they regard these tribunals as designed to be the concrete expression of justice. They exalt the ideal court. When there is failure of the judicial function, when crime goes unpunished, when the trick lawyer is more potent than the whole machinery supposed to uphold the statutes, the newspapers do not regard themselves as under any restraint, ethical or constitutional, in telling the world what they think about it. This has resulted in friction. Many times there have been efforts to subdue and coerce the press in its efforts to make known the truth. Rules from the bench touching this matter have been becoming more widespread and more stringent.

No claim is set up that the press is perfect. In instances it may be corrupt, and of evil intent. Let it be guilty of libel, and take the consequences. Let it be guilty of contempt, in the proper meaning of the term, and it also must take the consequences. But the press, as an equation in the making and declaring of public opinion, is not controlled from the bench. Efforts to make it so will fail and should fail.

When a court assumes, as recently in Wisconsin, that a paper must not publish anything likely to prejudice a venireman, it is granting itself a blanket license to edit the news column. When it undertakes to construe violation of its edict, into technical contempt, it is winning contempt in the broadest sense.

When a man accused of serious crime states that if lower bail were named, he would be able to produce the amount, he is likely to be giving excellent reasons for letting the bail stand. One purpose of exacting a bond is to prevent a rogue from eluding justice.

A film actress secretly married for five years is irritated because she failed to hedge her divorce about with equal secrecy. Neither the ceremony of marriage nor divorce should be hidden. The desire to hide either is an evidence of bad faith or a bad cause.

Sir Auckland suggests several improvements that might be made at Ellis Island, where immigrants land. One very great improvement in addition, ought to be in the personnel, brought about by assorting all candidates for admission before they leave their home ports, and causing some of them to remain on the other side.

MOVIE HEROINES

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

Movie heroines have long been my pet bete noir and I have written numbers of articles calling attention to their colorlessness, the vapidity, their silly infantile reactions in crises that were heavy with potentialities of tragedy.

Estelle Lawton Lindsey

But they go on being silly, absurd and vapid, all because directors conceive of women as being something sub-human, designed for decorations or at best as playthings for men. To permit them to do anything constructive, anything impulsive or human would be to violate tradition and spoil the chance for the leading man to crab the whole show.

What's the use of having a leading man with muscles like steel unless the production gives him a chance to display them in a fight to rescue the heroine?

Anyhow, I was delighted the other day to read an article from the pen of a famous English actress in which she lampoons the movies for just this fault. This woman, being trained in a proper sense of dramatic values, calls attention to the fact that the average movie heroine gets into trouble by having no more brains than a guinea pig, for which she should realy apologize to the guinea pig.

Most women get into trouble by the same time hallowed means; but dramatists who write for the legitimate stage have dramatic sense sufficient to avoid using totally brainless women as heroines.

As everybody from newsboys to laundry girls now write scenarios it is not strange that brainless heroines prevail; but it is terrible on the audiences.

Since the movies began I've been watching them and I've been struck with the startling fact that movie producers and directors, not to mention scenario writers, seem to be league in some deep conspiracy to keep women from ever at any time doing anything worth doing on the screen.

Mothers who ought to be in the forties according to the ages of their children become 80 plus on the screen and do nothing but look pathetic and pray; and I have yet to see a moving picture actress who in any crisis was able to do anything except to grab at her neck and show the beauty of her hands.

The remedy as seen by the British actress is to give the directors more power. PLEASE, no, not unless directors show some sense of emotional possibilities in women.

The great point is, oh most puissant directors, that ALL women are not lady-like in a crisis; they are human and primitive and resourceful and often, yes, very often, SAVAGE. They do NOT stand about leaving everything for the hero to do; they get busy, exceedingly, themselves and they make their activities count.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Doc Henneberry told me the other day that I must go away for a rest. My nerves, he said, were tight as fiddle strings and about as responsive. Mrs. Pilgrim, he said, was an angel of light or she would not have put up with me. If my nerves were not padded he would be obliged to drop me through the hatch.

"That, of course, is mere trifling," said I, very dignified.

"Not so trifling as you think," said Doc.

I did not want to go away. The most terrible place in the world to me is a sanitarium, penitentiaries and pest houses barred. And I did not want to go to a resort and twiddle my thumbs on the porch all day and lie awake in a small room smelling of pine all night. Furthermore, I detest storage chicken, which is the exclusive food of guests at resorts. I did not know of a farmhouse—a green shaded, quiet, cool fragrant farmhouse—to which I might go. There are such, for I've lived in them.

"Then stay in bed ten hours a day," said Doc, unexpectedly.

It's easy. I've already tried it and it is surprisingly easy. I do not sleep, of course, but it is pleasant to stretch out in the soft warmth when one awakens. From time to time one can doze a little. I've arranged a heavy curtain so that the light is kept out and the air let in. Already my poor nerves are unkinking themselves. I have not bellowed at Mrs. Pilgrim in a week.

I can think to better advantage in the absolute quiet and isolation of my bedroom than in the flurry of the office. I can see further ahead. I am able to get down to the job, give the orders for the day and get away to my golf. Yet the business is being more sanely conducted than when I was having duck-fits all over the premises.

It is a new plan to me. I was trained in a school that found it shameful to lie in bed after the eyes first opened. That school was wrong. The best nerve cure in the world is in one's own home and in one's own bed.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

JAMES W. FOLEY

Rusted souls.
You have seen them perhaps.
As the school boys say, "rusty" souls.
Not bright and alert and sharp.
Not responsive quickly and sharply to the lives of every day.
But dull.
Corroded and eaten out with monotony and discontent and fretting.

* * *

They are not difficult to identify.
You will see them in many places where they should not be.
You will find the dullness of them in many faces.
Rusted souls.
Eaten out with discontent.

* * *

The farmer uses a scythe or plowshare.
It does its work well.
He keeps it sharp.
The grindstone is often applied.
And the share cleaves the earth.
And at the end of the day is bright and clean.
Notwithstanding the fact that all day long it has been cleaving the roots and loam and earth.
And as long as the share does its work by day and has its rest at night, it remains bright and clean.
A shining sword of the soil.
Making the way for the planting of the crop.

* * *

But when the time for plowing is past, and it is laid away to idleness, the rust begins to form.
And if the farmer does not watch carefully he will soon have a rusted share.
Like a rusted soul.
Eaten through, coated over and spotted with rust.

* * *

The soul rusts because it is not doing its work.
Because it is not earnestly and conscientiously applied to some part of the work of life.
Because it does no labor with spirit.
Because it does not come into contact with the things of every day.
As the share cleaves the roots and grasses and loam.

* * *

Then the rust begins to form.
Worry and fret.
The corroding elements of life.
Discontent.
Another thing that makes for corrosion.
Drudgery.
Lack of spirit in work.
And in the end we have the rusted soul.

* * *

So you will see them in many places.
On the street.
In the mart.
In the home.
Idling, wondering, wandering, lack-lustre.
Knowing not what is wrong.
When the wrong is the rust that is upon them.

* * *

The world has many rusted souls.
Corroded and eaten through with holes.
Lacking brightness.
Coated over with discontent.
Dull with lack of purpose.

* * *

It is the realization of uselessness and idleness that is upon them.
They are set apart by their own weakness or will from the day and the day's work and the day's folk.

Songs of the Poets

From "This Is My Hour"—By Zoe Adkins

This is my hour, between the day and night;
The sun has set, and all the world is still,
The afterglow upon the distant hill
Is as a holy light.

This is my hour, between the sun and moon;
The little stars are gathering in the sky,
There is no sound but one bird's startled cry,—
One note that ceases soon.

The garden and, far off, the meadow land,
Are like the fading depth beneath a sea,
While over waves of misty shadow we
Drigt onward, hand in hand.

This is my hour, that you have called your own;
Its hush-ed beauty silently we share,—
Touched by the wistful wonder in the air
That leaves us so alone.

THE DRAGON

By DR. FRANK CRANE

ONE cannot travel through China and Japan without seeing everywhere about him, in dwelling and in temple, in the merchant shop and in the public builing, on screens, canes, clothes, and every other conceivable object of human work or play, the ever recurring shape of the Dragon.

He watches you from roofs, peers at you from dark corners, sneers at you from altars, leers up at you from floors, jeers over you at banquets—in short, companions you from the swaddling clothes of infancy to the cerements of the grave.

Life seems to be just one Dragon after another.

They lend themselves peculiarly to decoration, and combine strongly the grotesque, the beautiful and the shocking.

The original idea of the Dragon, what might be called the Dragon motif, was Fear.

The first and dominant note of human life, as the soul made its first struggle upward toward civilization, was Terror. Man found himself surrounded by infinite, complicated, multitudinous menace. The beasts preyed on him, the serpents stung him, the insects pricked him, the floods drowned him, the sun scorched him, and the rising passions of his own heart wracked him like great storms and with every pleasure brought a danger, a pain and a fear.

So the first religion was one of Terror.

"Fear made the gods," said the Romans. Indeed that feeling still echoes throughout the human race, as one form or another of superstition, for most religion among the tribes of men is nothing but dread of the Unknown; man fears the Infinite as children fear the dark.

One can see this idea working out in most religious rites and creeds, for they seem to be nearly all gestures for averting the anger of the Supernatural.

The western traveler is so familiar with the ceremonies of the Church that he hardly reconizes them as crystallization of fear, but when he enters a Buddhist or Shinto temple the realization of this is shattering.

In the crowded temples at Nikko, for instance, the most important place of Buddhism and Shintonism in Japan, you will find every device of fear.

Here is a five-storied elaborate pagoda, and when you ask the purpose of it you are told that it is to protect the place from the demons.

On each side of every gate is the statue of a ferocious warrior, one usually with his mouth open and the other with his mouth shut, representing active and passive resistance to the evil spirits.

There are also sculptured lions and tigers and cats and monkeys, all watching to fight against the dreadful spirits.

One beautiful gate has twelve pillars exquisitely carven; one of these pillars was deliberately placed upside down, lest the gods who were jealous of human perfection should be peeved by such beauty.

Perhaps the most important note of modernity is the friendliness of Nature, just as the most significant note of antiquity, whether in the Orient, in Greece, in Europe, or among the savage tribes of the West, has been the jealousy and vindictiveness of the gods.

The age of science has liberated the soul of man and taught him to consider Nature as a vast mother and friend whose co-operation it is his chief business to seek, whereas the ancient world fought forever a losing battle against the universe, dodging, appeasing, now defying and now groveling before the gods.

The real contribution which Jesus of Nazareth made to the world was His revelation of the Deity as friendly. When He taught His disciples to pray, saying, "Our Father," and when He told the story of The Prodigal Son, He laid the spiritual foundations for that house for the soul of man which the age of Science and the age of Democracy were, two thousand years afterwards, to begin building.

For the foundation of all human progress is the friendliness of the universe; the superstructure of the edifice is the understanding of and the co-operation with the laws of the universe.

And in that future House of Life there shall be no Dragon.

OBSERVED AT A GLANCE

A former member of the San Francisco grand jury has been arrested for bootlegging, affording the familiar spectacle of the mighty engaged in falling.

Doubtless DeValera is glad he was not arrested while so many trigger fingers in Ireland still were nervous.

People who reach the century mark in southern California hardly realize it, so pleasantly the time has passed.

A judge who goes into politics as a sideline runs the risk of getting into contempt.

The vanishing act of Miss Minter would have been more appreciated had there been less preliminary gab.

Selling land owned by somebody else, without consent of the holder of title, is classed by the grand jury as something not to do.

Already there is noticed a general suspicion that Magnus Johnson will be a dud after all.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

HENRY JAMES

"To capture the culprit is a small part of our work. Our greatest objective is to prevent crime."

So says the chief of police of a large city. It is easy to assume the angle of view taken by him, to get the essence of his theory, and to say that ideally it is correct. Yet rude and obvious facts interfere with the putting of it into practice. When the police can prevent crime, and do so, well and good. It appears that they have not yet acquired the ability to prevent. And is not the capture of a criminal to be counted as a preventive?

The other day a policeman arrested two desperate crooks. They tried to kill him, and entering into the spirit of the occasion, he killed them both. Admiring citizens presented him with a purse of $6000. They had recognized and appreciated good police work. Every week there is a long list of fresh criminal acts, some of them brutal, some unspeakably depraved. No method has been found for preventing them. Yet had the criminals been caught earlier, after commission of minor offenses, and duly penalized, the chances are that they would have abandoned their career of outlawry. The two mentioned above experienced permanent reformation.

Some day, in the future, the police may be good and wise and powerful, and by its presence awe the wicked into good behavior. Meanwhile it would seem well to handcuff the wicked, and forget the pleasing theory.

In his earnest desire to procure an education a youth is said to have swindled three women out of $2800. He seems likely to get his education all right, but not at the institution he had selected.

Cloudy weather is predicted for the day set for eclipse of the sun. Unfortunately there is no way in which the solar spectacle may be deferred. The prophet in this instance bases his guess on the fact that the corresponding date in previous years always has been clear. Such a prophet is merely trying to deluge his environment with cold water from a very shallow bucket.

The New York World is being used by the Philippine publicity bureau as next after the bureau's own publications for the spread of prejudice against American rule in the islands.

No one would be likely to defend such rule after necessity for it had ceased. The very tone of the publicity bureau is evidence enough that the necessity still exists.

The attempt to blacken the character of former Chief Oaks of the Los Angeles police is likely to be looked upon as the effort of politicians to discredit his exposure of them. There is scant probability that it will receive credence, injure Oaks, or whiten the reputation of his enemies.

A man charged with beggaring many of his clients, stripping some of them of their total possessions, lately had the mischance to be arrested. But he did not go to jail, that institution being for smaller fry.

It is amazing how columns are being devoted to an ex-film actress whose affairs are not of the slightest importance. She is having a spectacular row with her mother, but there are courts to try such cases. Besides, the papers need much of their news space for news.

Robbing banks is rather a bad business. Few has found it a paying enterprise. The chap that tried it at San Cabriel the other day, and ended the episode by shooting himself, did about as well as any that comes to mind.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

THE TRUSTIES

Go slow with the "only-boys-in-the-room-I-can-trust" speech. When honors are to be distributed it is well to have the approval of the group. You don't always know what they know.

Tommy seated himself at the dinner table with an expression of grim joy. His mother was uneasy. "Tommy, what have you been doing?"

"Doing? Nothing. But, Oh Mom, you know Arthur and Ben Lowe and Dick Lowrie? Well, they got theirs today! Some fun! Some fun we had, I'll say! We crowned 'em and we beaned 'em!"

"Tommy! You've been fighting again! How'll I ever face those people? You're always disgracing me."

"Wait till I tell you! Today, when Miss Marie was out of the room, Red's mother came and she was talking to her, we threw papers. Not much. Just a little. All of us did it and those three the worst. Dick Lowrie began it by hitting me with some inky blotting paper right in the face.

"When he heard Miss Marie turning down the hall he began working and so did the other two and the rest of us got caught and she says: 'You three are the only boys in the room I can trust. The only ones.' And they sat up like big stiffs, just as if they believed it.

"Then the principal came to speak to her again and she stepped just outside the door and Red he slips out of his seat and makes a halo over their heads with his hands. They don't see him—they're sitting up so good and noble—but the rest of us burst right out laughing and she hops back into the room just in time to catch Red getting back into his seat and says we all got to stay in and get five demerits—all except the three angels.

"There was a teachers' meeting this afternoon so she couldn't keep us and we got those three and we took an old tin from the lot and we crowned 'em and we messed them some. Oh, boy! Some fun!"

"You're a lot of perfect savages! What will those boys' mothers say? How do you think I feel when they tell me how rough you are?"

"Who? Me? Rough? I suppose you think Arthur and Dick and Ben aren't rough? The three of them stood the whole of us up until we chased them into Lowrie's yard and then we didn't get much the best of them 'cause Lowrie turned the hose on us and wet us some, but he broke his own mother's window so he is fixed, and Arthur pulled a rail off our fence and kept tripping us with it. Talk about rough! Some fun we had! We crowned the teacher's good boys!"

Yes, yes. Go slow on the trusties unless you have the group opinion—and then go slow, too. Boys are boys, if they're healthy.

'COMMON LAW' IS BIG SENSATION AT T. D. & L.

In "The Common Law," at the T. D. & L. theater, shown last night, poor Valerie is almost overcome with shame at the mere idea of posing, but as she is sadly in need of even the necessities of life, she overcomes her scruples after a desperate struggle and appears before the artist, Neville, unveiled. She is so satisfactory that Neville engages her as his regular model, and their mutual liking soon ripens into love. A triangle of events follow.

"The Common Law," screen production of Robert W. Chambers' novel, opened a three days' run at the T. D. & L., Sunday. The story of the play is an episode in Bohemia.

Louis Neville, the artist and aristocrat, occupies a studio in the same building as his three boon companions, Jose Querida, a portrait painter; John Burleson, an illustrator, and Sam Ogilvy, a sculptor. One day as Neville is working on a great mural decoration, which he had been commissioned to paint for a theater, pretty Valerie West applies to him for employment as a model. Not realizing that she is a novice and not a professional, he motions her to the dressing room and indicates that she is expected to disrobe and pose for him in the nude.

DeMOLAY TO PROTECT EMBLEM

In an attempt to suppress the sale of an imitation emblem, the grand council, Order of DeMolay, has enlisted the help of the Better Business bureaus and the press throughout the country.

Certain manufacturing jewelers are attempting to market an emblem which does not conform with the specifications of the official DeMolay emblem, patented October 25, 1921.

The official emblem embodies a shield ornamented with 12 genuine pearls, backed by two crossed swords and mounted with a helmet, with the cross of the Templar, star and crescent and the initials D and M upon the face of the shield.

Reputable dealers everywhere are cautioned to exercise care in the selection of DeMolay emblems and insist that same embody the official design, thereby protecting their customers and discouraging unfair trade practices.

DeMolay is a non-commercial organization and derives no royalties from the sale of emblems. Its only interest is to insure its members against exorbitant prices and to insist upon high quality in the manufacture of said emblems.

TWO BUSY DAYS FOR LOCKSMITH

BERLIN (By mail to United Press).—"Count" von Hohenau moved into a house in Georgenkirchstrasse at 8 p. m.

At 9 he fell in love with a young lady who lived across the hall.

At 10 he was engaged.

The next morning he invited in about 100 guests for a champagne party.

At 6 in the evening the police arrived.

At 7 o'clock the count's identity was revealed. He was a locksmith named Rausch.

At 8 o'clock he was not engaged any more.

Rausch had stolen an automobile which he sold for a couple of hundred million marks.

He blew in his money on his party and couldn't pay his fine.

At 10 p. m. he was given free lodging in the city jail.

DEER HUNTING OPENS IN OREGON

PORTLAND, Oregon, Aug. 20 (United Press).—Sportsmen of Oregon are out in wildwood today. This is the first day of the 1923 deer season, and the opening was greeted by a turnout of nimrods which bespeaks no good for the welfare of the state's deer.

The season will not close until October 31, giving a period of 71 days for the hunt. Oregon sportsmen consider they are fortunate in this regard, as the season is much longer here than in other coast states, where in most instances 30 days is the limit.

LEGION NEWS

For God and Country, we associate ourselves together for the following purposes: To uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States of America; to maintain law and order; to foster and perpetuate a one hundred per cent Americanism; to preserve the memories and incidents of our association in the Great War; to inculcate a sense of individual obligation to the community, state and nation; to combat the autocracy of both the classes and the masses; to make right the master of might; to promote peace and good will on earth; to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of justice, freedom and democracy; to consecrate and sanctify our comradeship by our devotion to mutual helpfulness.—Preamble to the Constitution of the American Legion.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 20.—John R. Quinn, past commander of the department of California of the American Legion was unanimously endorsed for national commander in a resolution passed by the Seventh Congressional district comprising posts of the San Joauin valley, held in Merced, August 7. The resolution will be introduced at the state convention to be held in Eureka, August 27 to 30, inclusive, requesting the approval of the convention body.

Zane-Irwin post, No. 93, will present a resolution urging congress to reconsider the disabled emergency officers' retirement bill, which passed the senate, February, 1922, but failed to receive favorable action in the house before the close of the sixty-seventh congress. The measure provides a separate retired list for all disabled emergency officers of the World war, who have a 20 per cent permanent disability rating.

Rialto post, No. 203, will ask the convention assembled to pass a resolution requiring aliens over 18 years of age in the United States to register annually with the federal authorities and pay a fee sufficient to cover adequate fees for the schooling of adult aliens desiring citizenship. This resolution is covered in a bill to be reintroduced at the next session of congress by Senator Samuel Shortridge.

According to Morgan Keaton, department adjutant, a special train on the Northwestern Pacific railroad will leave San Francisco Sunday noon, August 26, carrying delegates to the state convention, arriving in Eureka at 11 o'clock Sunday night.

Foreign born World war veterans of the U. S. armed forces not yet naturalized have an opportunity to become American citizens until March 3, 1924, without fulfilling requirements as to residence over a definite period of time. This information has led officials of the American Legion to urge all Americanism officers to lend their assistance to those aliens who served honorably, who but through ignorance, have not yet applied for citizenship. About 50,000 of such veterans are eligible.

Bureau of naturalization officials had advised legion leaders that a total of 270,000 men were naturalized while in service and that 80,000 have since taken out papers. Under the law, an honorable discharge and two witnesses who are citizens to identify the applicant is sufficient proof. No charge is made for naturalization. Specific cases may be presented to the commissioner of naturalization through post Americanism officers of the legion.

Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., a World war veteran himself, has sent word to Los Angeles ex-service men through the American Legion that the columns of his new morning paper will be open to their use. He says that the men of the World war will be the one force to recruit American sentiment, American ideals, American standards and that the lessons of the war must not be lost. The policy of the paper is to be one of Americanism, and former soldiers will be given preference in employment.

Words often shake our convictions, but seldom overthrow them.

AS IT WAS RAINING I THOUGHT OF THIS AND SAID TO MYSELF: "I'LL TRY THAT SCHEME ON BILL HAYS," SO, TAKING BILL'S UMBRELLA, WHICH I BORROWED 6 MONTHS AGO, I CALLED AND RANG THE BELL. MRS. BILL CAME TO THE DOOR.
"I THOUGHT I'D RETURN BILL'S UMBRELLA," SAID I. "AND-ER—" "IT'S LUCKY YOU DID!" SAID SHE. "I WAS JUST GOING AFTER IT!"

MISLEADING TRUCK COMPANIES PUT OUT OF BUSINESS

Rail Commission Finds Many Defraud Their Patrons

Through co-operation of the San Francisco Ad club, San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, and the Railroad Commission, steps have been taken to eliminate false and misleading advertising and representation by unauthorized motor truck concerns, purporting to operate regular truck service for transportation of household goods and furniture between San Francisco, Los Angeles and intermediate points.

This advertising would attract the attention of families desiring to move their furniture between the points named. On getting into touch with the mover they were informed that the furniture would be moved direct from house to house without crating within 30 hours. Prices were quoted satisfactory to the owner of the furniture, who departed for the south expecting his furniture within the time promised. After waiting from ten days to two weeks he would receive a bill considerably in excess of that heretofore quoted and would further find that the furniture did not come by truck. It was taken by the transfer company to their local warehouse, crated and shipped by rail, the owner being obliged to pay two separate movements in San Francisco, cost of crating, the freight rate, and then to secure a local drayman at the other end to move the goods from the freight depot, uncrate same, and move to final destination. This resulted in a cost far in excess of the price to shipper agreed to pay originally.

There are two authorized furniture movers between San Francisco and Los Angeles, and due to the fact that other unauthorized carriers did not actually operate, no steps could be taken under the state law regulating operation of trucks in that they did not actually operate, though their representatives agreed to do so.

Proposed Waterway to Open Up Central Europe

[By Associated Press]

BAMBERG, Bavaria, Aug. 20.—Charlemagne would have a bad half hour if he could come back to life long enough to see how canal diggers are gashing up the eastern half of his old empire to connect the waters of the Rhine and Danube, and make it possible for ocean-going ships to travel from the North Sea to the Black Sea by inland waters.

The Rhine-Main-Danube canal, which was begun in 1921, contemplates a revolution in the transportation system of Europe, and indirectly of the entire world. Freight routes will be changed, and cargoes loaded on ocean-going ships of not greater than 1,500 tons capacity will be able to sail from Rotterdam to Galatz, at the mouth of the Danube, touching Cologne, Mayence, Frankfort, Nuremberg, Vienna, Budapest and Belgrade on their way to the Black Sea.

Foley's Friendly Fancies

JAMES W. FOLEY

THE OLDEN TIME

The monster trees we used to climb,
Upon a summer day;
The hills we tramped up many a time,
Their tops so far away.
The old church bell whose voice was deep,
The spire so big and tall,
The river bank where we would creep,
The mighty water fall!

The clover fields that used to be,
Like kingdoms red and white,
The thick woods dark with mystery
In the swift coming night.
Sometimes I wish I might go back
And look and see just how
The wonders of that boyhood track
Would look to me right now.

I know the tree top would not rise
So nearly to the sky.
I wonder if the blue of skies
Would seem as when my eye
Beheld it on a summer's day,
And would the splash and roar
Of the old river sound the way
It always did before.

I think if out among the leaves,
Across the fields and lane,
I could look from beneath the eaves
Of my bedroom again,
And see the picture, feel the glow
Of beauty in my heart
That I did once, I'd ask to know
No glory more of art.

'SALOMY JANE' AT THE GATEWAY IS CROWDING HOUSE

Night scenes among the great redwoods of Boulder canyon, Northern California, are one of the attractive spectacles of "Salomy Jane" a Paramount picture, which is scoring heavily at the Gateway theater this week. These inspiring scenes were made possible by a huge battery of electric arc lights and the achievement is one more step in the advancement of the technique of making motion pictures.

Gatherings of the Vigilantes by night, a stage robbery during a midnight storm, rides along roads bordered by black forests—all these are made possible by the use of electric lights.

The George Melford production "Salomy Jane," is a tale of the romantic days of '49 when the law was crudely meted out by the Vigilantes, an organization of settlers formed to keep the peace.

"The Man," a stranger in Red Dog, falls victim to this primitive justice. He is accused of robbing a stage coach and when about to be led away to be hanged is kissed good-bye by Salomy Jane, an impulsive daughter of a pioneer. The stranger escapes but Red Pete, also charged with the hold-up, is hanged. Returning to thank Salomy for her kiss, the man meets an old enemy, Baldwin, and in the struggle Baldwin is shot by another man in ambush. Then the plot thickens.

Our treatments are the same as used by the famous Battle Creek Sanitarium of Battle Creek, Michigan, and consist of diet, exercise, massage, electric light baths, salt glows, hot applications, hot and cold sprays, galvanic and sinusoidal electricity. The laboratories are equipped with fine X-ray machines with the latest stereoscopic improvements.

The efficient methods of treating the sick, combined with a scientific knowledge of the preparations and combinations of foods used in a vegetarian, or so-called non-flesh dietary, gives the patient a well-balanced course of treatment.
